WORCESTER

The home of Midland Red West is of course famous for other things. Not the least of which is its magnificent cathedral. The ancient city stands on the banks of the Severn in the centre of a rich and fertile plain. Many buildings still exist of note in the old city centre, the Commandery and Tudor House, Greyfriars and Guildhall, one of the finest examples of early Georgian architecture in the country, particularly the elaborate facade. The city is also famed for its porcelain industry. The present factory in Severn Street is open by appointment and the Dyson Perrins museum next door has the best collection of Worcester Porcelain in the world. The Cathedral itself was started in 1084 and contains a fine crypt, King John's tomb, thirteenth century choir stalls, fourteenth century tower and a riverside setting almost unique. Fine shopping and places galore to eat and drink make the county town a centre worthy of the area.
